Brave boy raises £855 for hospital where his sister is being treated

SMILES: Toni Stocker and Baxter Harkin abseil at the Essex Outdoors Centre in Harlow

ABSEILING ACE, 8, IS TOWERING SUCCESS

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A BRAVE eight-year-old boy completed a sponsored abseil to raise £855 for the hospital treating his four-year-old sister for cancer.

Baxter Harkin, of Manor Road, Harlow, used the money to buy Christmas presents for children at Great Ormond Street Hospital in London where four-year-old Carmela is being treated for leukaemia.

His parents, dad Paul and mum Amanda, said this week they could not be more proud of him.

"It has been difficult for us having Carmela at hospital and it has been hard for Baxter not having us all around at Christmas," said Mrs Harkin. "It was really nice that he did this and it was something that he really enjoyed doing."

Carmela was readmitted to hospital in December after her cancer returned following a period in remission.

Mrs Harkin added: "All the presents went into Christmas stockings for children at Great Ormond Street. It was a lovely surprise for so many."

Harlowbury Primary School pupil Baxter completed the abseil challenge at Essex Outdoors Centre in Burnt Mill, Harlow alongside family friend Toni Stocker, who is an instructor. Between them the pair completed 50 descents down the 14m-high abseil tower, making a combined total of 700m.

Miss Stocker, 23, of Berecroft, Harlow, said: "I know Baxter through his regular visits to Essex Outward Bound. After he told me Carmela was re-admitted to hospital we wanted to do something to help."

"We organised a sponsored abseil event which lasted for two hours. Afterwards we hit the shops and purchased a large variety of new toys and games for the children as well as biscuits and chocolates for nurses."

Miss Stocker said the nurses and play leaders at the hospital heard about what they were doing and invited them to bring the gifts to Great Ormond Street themselves.

She added: "We donated our gifts to the oncology wards of the hospital and hope they bring much pleasure to the children."

Celebration of market's centenary

A VILLAGE marked its 100th farmers' market with a visit from Harlow MP Robert Halfon.

Matching Farmer's Market is held on the third Saturday of each month at the village hall in Matching Tye.

It is open between 10am and midday and is run by volunteers for the benefit of the village hall.

The market has been running for eight years and four months.

A celebratory cake was cut by Mr Halfon on Saturday after which he congratulated everyone involved and wished them future success. A short speech was also given by parish and district councillor Richard Morgan.

For more information about the market, call Don Cramphorn on (01279) 731312 or e-mail don.cramphorn@freeuk.com.

Striking doctor warns more will quit the NHS

Hospital medic accuses Government of being out of touch

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A JUNIOR doctor claims trainee medics are quitting the NHS because of the Government's attempts to introduce a new contract.

Dr Saranga Sothisrihari, 33, who was brought up in Harlow and trained at Princess Alexandra Hospital, was speaking after the British Medical Association announced it was calling off the second of its strikes by junior doctors due to take place next week.

"We are still angry, frustrated and concerned," said Dr Sothisrihari. "Under the plans for a seven-day NHS, staff will be tied to a contract that will see them work longer and more erratic hours for no extra pay."

"I would like to see a resolution come soon but I struggle to imagine how because the Government's stance is different on many issues and they refuse to back down.

"They are really out of touch and I know many trainee doctors who are quitting because they have lost faith in the profession."

Dr Sothisrihari currently works at Homerton University Hospital in Hackney as he trains to become a consultant. He was involved in the first strike which took place last Monday.

The 48-hour junior doctor strike, which was due to start on Tuesday, has been cancelled with the BMA due to hold more talks with the Government. If negotiations stall, the strike planned for Wednesday, February 10 could still go ahead.

Health Secretary Jeremy Hunt has said no junior doctors will face a pay cut while basic pay for doctors will rise.

However, Dr Sothisrihari accused Mr Hunt of voicing "political spin".

"Basic pay has increased but out of hours work has been cut by a much greater amount which could leave some colleagues several hundred pounds worse off per month," he said.

"They are citing figures and using political spin to show that they believe in the NHS but that is not the case."

"Jeremy Hunt has just made empty promises. In practice doctors will struggle to stretch to work these erratic hours and there is no long-term protection for salaries. I'm sure by that stage they would find themselves much poorer."

"Stroke service experts have said the figures he's stated do not add up."

He added: "On the day of the strike I was providing emergency cover, but I was able to join the picket line for a couple of hours to show my support."

"If they continue to impose the contracts then we will continue to strike."

Rod Stewart given green light for football pitch plan

ROCK star Rod Stewart has been given the green light to build an artificial football pitch in the grounds of his £5 million mansion on the outskirts of Harlow.

The singer was granted planning permission to construct the five-a-side pitch at his home in Sheering by Epping Forest District Council, subject to a number of conditions.

The pitch will be surrounded by fencing and trees and there will also be a car park. However, councillors refused permission for the erection of floodlights on the grounds that they were inappropriate next to the historic property.

A report by council officers said: "The artificial surface is an incongruous addition within the grounds of a mid-18th century house. However, the existing screening provided and hedging trees and the proposal to supplement these with additional native species will minimise views of the pitch and diminish the harm caused to the settings of the buildings."

"There would inevitably be some level of noise emanating from the use of the pitch especially if two teams were to play with family and friends spectating."

"However, without the flood-lighting it wouldn't be able to be used late into the evening for much of the year and any noise nuisance can be dealt with under separate environmental health legislation."

It is understood Rod and his wife, Penny Lancaster, bought the Grade II listed 10-bedroom property in Lower Sheering Road in 2013.

When the property was marketed on online site Rightmove, it was described as "one of the pre-eminent houses in an area favoured by successful people and occupies a private and secluded rural position despite being just 30 miles northeast of central London".

Among the listed features are four self-contained cottages, a large walled garden, orchard and croquet lawn.

Bills will rise as council set to increase tax take

Authority wants to put its portion up in above-inflation hike

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

TAXPAYERS will pay more under proposals by Harlow Council for an above-inflation rise to its portion of the council tax bill.

The planned 1.5 per cent rise will mean the authority can continue to fund community services including The Playhouse, Pets' Corner and the annual fireworks despite a £1.1m reduction in the funding it receives.

The Labour-run council is also pledging to freeze parking charges at neighbourhood shopping areas and retain one-hour free.

But 300 households will be affected by plans to change the weekly nappy and incontinence waste collections to fortnightly and there will also be a 50 per cent hike in the cost of using the council's heavy squad service.

NAPPIES: It is proposed that nappy collection be a fortnightly service

"Our priority is to do what we can to ensure services are not taken away from residents," said council leader Jon Clempner. "However, this continues to be a huge challenge to achieve and there remains considerable uncertainty over the Government's plans for the future funding of councils."

He added: "Despite having to make more savings than originally planned due to a significant further cut to funding from the Government, services are protected from closure or drastic cuts and there will be no council staff redundancies as a result of these budget proposals."

Cllr Clempner admitted the proposals leave "little room" for the council to invest any money in improving services, adding: "I know increasing council tax again won't be popular with many but a small 7p a week increase for the average council tax bill will help towards protecting services and jobs."

Since 2011/12 the council's main grant from Government, which funds nearly half of services has reduced by over 65 per cent. It expects to make further cuts of £3 million up to 2021.

Cllr Mike Danvers, cabinet portfolio holder for resources, added: "We are very aware the Government's ongoing cuts in the funding of the council and the huge uncertainty this brings means that tough decisions will continue to be taken."

The proposals, which will be discussed next month, include no plans for compulsory redundancies but do call for the deletion of vacant posts.

A total of £416,000 will be added to the regeneration fund to support the economic regeneration of the town centre and £787,000 will be transferred to the Discretionary Services Fund to help fund increased running costs and support for services such as The Playhouse, Pets Corner, Harlow Youth Council and the paddling pools.

Diversity the way forward

SIR, Cllr Tony Durcan informs us that Harlow Council is in the process of employing a manager to oversee the regeneration of the town centre (Star, January 14). I hope the new manager has the courage to override the Utopian vision of flowerpots, trees and fancy lighting as these will not encourage new businesses into the town.

The market that once thrived three generations ago will never return as such as the internet provides better value for money. However, as can be seen by the markets held in Epping, Chelmsford and St Albans, market traders can and do provide a diverse range of products that attract people from further afield.

In another comparison with those three, Harlow lacks the permanently based independent traders who provide products that national chains will not stock. Go to one shopping mall and you have been to them all as they all have the same national retailers offering the same products.

I understand the regeneration of some of the buildings around Market Square and West Gate is hampered because they are owned or controlled by one person. I suspect the regeneration of the northern part of the town centre is being thwarted by a lack of communications between these two parties to resolve this situation but I stand to be corrected.

I would like to establish once and for all and perhaps on behalf of the residents of Harlow that we can only drink so much coffee! The St Albans market has a Chinese food shed, albeit basic with functional outdoor seating, but the food is terrific. Walk in any direction from there and you will encounter independently owned shops offering books, records, handmade pottery etc.

That's the sort of idea the new manager must embrace, beyond another latte outlet, trendy boutique or another burger bar, to attract people to the town centre. That will, in turn, attract the financial investment from institutions, confident that Harlow has developed a strategic vision.

Cars too big for garages

SIR, Further to my letter on the subject of unused garages which was published in the Star a little while ago, I decided to look through the pictures and descriptions of houses for sale in the Harlow area.

I noticed quite a few adverts where a seven foot wide garage was in full view but not mentioned in the description of the property. Some descriptions read "parking for several cars" or "driveway parking for four vehicles".

On this evidence I think estate agents are being fair by admitting modern cars, in most cases, are too large for seven foot wide garages.

Michael A. Cox

Learning from past mistakes

SIR, Bridget McAlpine rightfully draws attention to the financial cost of closing Harlow Advice Centre (Letters, January 14).

The council might regard this as simply a costly mistake from which they could learn lessons for the future. However, they have refused to do.

The call from a public meeting for an inquiry to find out why things went wrong has been refused. This follows a concerted attempt by the council to withhold information on the matter which was defeated only by a Freedom of Information judgement against them.

Mistakes naturally do occur but it is the duty of elected councillors to examine and investigate when things go wrong, especially when it involves the waste of public money. They do so primarily to ensure such mistakes do not recur in the future.

Perhaps, then, our Labour councillors can explain why, when as I understand it, the cabinet member for governance tried to get the matter examined at the last Labour group meeting she did not get a single vote of support.

If the concerns of the most senior councillor with responsibility for the way the council is run is ignored in this way, it is becoming increasingly evident that this was not simply a mistake but something which the council is afraid to have properly examined.

Defeating ISIS is not a joke

SIR, It is a pity your correspondent cannot make a more constructive response to my letter on defeating ISIS than a feeble joke (Letters, January 14).

The international tribunal that I proposed, among a number of other measures, might not have much immediate effect on Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi, but it could influence others.

Incidentally, I would include among the others not only Islamists but other perpetrators of crimes against humanity, of whom there are many on all sides. In fact, I consider bombing in itself a war crime since, despite all the claims about 'smart' weapons and precision bombs, there are inevitably civilian casualties.

But even if the claims were justified, the misguided young men, including some from the UK, who succumb to the jihadist message do not deserve to be arbitrarily killed. The fundamental point remains that an ideological conflict cannot be won by military means.

Frank Jackson

We too suffer from noise

SIR, I had to reply to the letter about car noise (Letters, January 14) as here in Milwards we think we are living on Santa Pod race track.

I sympathise with your correspondent. We have music blaring 24/7 and as for noisy exhausts, they just don't care.

We also have to get up early for work and we never get a lay in on Sundays because music is always blaring out from cars.

Those responsible seem to sleep all day and come out at night. And as for thinking about other people, they don't care less.

I am dreading the clocks going forward as with lighter evenings it will be 100 per cent worse.

My grandchildren don't stay with us much now because they keep getting woken up.

Four injured after bus and car collide

FOUR people were injured when a bus collided with a car and crashed through railings in Harlow town centre.

The accident happened in Velizy Avenue near the junction with Terminus Street at 4.45pm last Wednesday.

Police closed part of the road for more than four hours while the single decker bus was recovered and repairs were carried out to the railings.

None of the four people who were hurt suffered serious injuries although one man was taken to hospital.

Town's public art showcased for exhibition

Original new town designs to be featured

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

ORIGINAL designs for Harlow New Town will go on public display for the first time at a major exhibition being organised by Historic England.

The designs by John Graham will be on show at Somerset House in London next month as part of the exhibition – Out There: Our Post-War Public Art – which tells the story of key public art created between 1945 and 1985.

Out There follows the fates and fortunes of site-specific sculptures and reliefs by pioneering artists. Works by Barbara Hepworth, Elisabeth Frink, Ralph Brown, Geoffrey Clarke, William Mitchell and Paul Mount will be featured.

Historic England, formerly English Heritage, will explain why post war public art matters, how it can be better looked after and what we can all do to save it.

A spokeswoman for Historic

SHOWPIECE: Boar by Elisabeth Frink

England said: "It examines the aspirations, role, design, commissioning and legacy of sculptural art for public spaces and buildings."

"They were designed by artists to create a Utopian sense of shared experience, possibility, and hope for the future."

The story of these works will be told through original architectural models, maquettes, photographs, drawings and letters. Bronze maquettes of Elisabeth Frink's Boar in Harlow and Barbara Hepworth's Winged Figure on the side of John Lewis, Oxford Street will be on show.

Various works lent from private collections will go on public display for the first time, including the original designs for Harlow New Town.

The exhibition is part of Somerset House's year of Utopia-themed programming and will follow the announcement of around 40 new listings of public art.

For more information or to book tickets, visit www.somerset-house.org.uk. The exhibition opens on February 3.

Join this year's search for Harlow's top tots

CALLING all parents – the search for Harlow's top tots of 2016 is about to start.

This year's competition will get under way next month with photo sessions taking place over four days in the Harvey Centre. There are four categories – 0-12 months, 13-24 months, 2-5 years and groups/siblings up to 11 years.

The photo sessions will take place from Thursday, February 4 to Sunday, February 7, with a photographer available from 10am-4pm.

CUTE: 2015 winner Ella Morgan

A gallery of photos will go live on our website on Thursday, March 3 and readers have until midnight on Sunday, March 27 to vote for their favourites. The child that polls the most votes will win the title Baby & Child of the Year 2016 while the winners of the three other groups will be runners-up.

The parents of the overall winner will receive a 20x16 inch block print of their child's photo while the runners-up will receive 10x12 inch block prints of their photos.

Remember, there's no need to book an appointment – just turn up and take part.

GETTING IN SHAPE: Pupils Lola Cousins and Oscar Syrett with PE co-ordinator Reece Webb

'Fit to learn' is message at academy

THE launch of a new breakfast club is just one way pupils at a Harlow primary school are being encouraged to adopt a healthy lifestyle.

Pemberley Academy, in Hodings Road, is doing its bit to tackle the problems of childhood obesity by encouraging youngsters to eat well and stay active.

As well as the breakfast club, the school is holding a series of assemblies on the subject of healthy eating, and PE staff run 30-minute sport sessions for pupils before lessons.

Headteacher Neil Coster said a balanced diet and exercise were important for children to enjoy a successful school life.

"Healthy lifestyles form an important part of our ethos here at Pemberley," he said. "We run 13 after-school clubs, many of which are sport or fitness-based."

"We're trying to get our pupils active as early as possible and to help them understand that being fit is as important as anything else they'll do."

Children from three Harlow schools attend competition

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

DETERMINED youngsters from three Harlow schools did not let their disabilities affect their sharp-shooting when they took part in the sport of boccia.

Students from Passmores Academy, Church Langley Primary School and St Luke's Catholic Primary School were among those taking part in a tournament at Mark Hall Sports Centre, in London Road, Harlow.

Sport

Boccia, which has been has been a competitive sport in the Paralympic Games since 1984, is played indoors and is in the same family of ball games as petanque and bowls, with competitors aiming a soft leather ball at a target. There are both team and individual disciplines.

IN COMPETITION: St Luke's School playing with blue balls take on Chalkwell Hall Junior School from Leigh-on-Sea with red balls

Students with physical and learning disabilities from 12 schools took part in Friday's tournament co-organised by disability sports body Power2Inspire and Essex County Council.

Young competitors were treated to a talk from Power2Inspire chief executive John Willis, who is aiming to participate in every Paralympic sport before Rio 2016.

Mr Willis, who was born without hands and feet, said: "The way that we currently organise sport doesn't allow disabled people to play and compete with non-disabled friends."

Participate

"I believe that everyone should have the opportunity to participate in sport regardless of body type, age, disability or ethnicity."

Boccia was the latest sport to be tried and tested by Mr Willis on the road to Rio, with the 55-year-old already having participated in table tennis, hockey and completed a triathlon.

He added: "That is what Power2Inspire is all about - inclusion through sport for all."

New look to reflect new approach

THE new year has brought a change of colour for pupils at Cooks Spinney Primary Academy.

The school in Cooks Spinney will be swapping their traditional red for bottle-green jumpers for boys and cardigans for girls.

While pupils can wear the new designs immediately, the change does not become compulsory until the start of the new academic year in September.

The change reflects Cooks Spinney's transition to academy status. It features the school's new logo and motto "Per ardua ad astra", borrowed from the RAF, which means "Through adversity to the stars".

Headteacher Stuart Pope said: "The logo is amazing and is everything about where we are taking the school."

■ The new uniform is available from Top Form, in The Stow.

St James delighted to be among top 100 improvers

STAFF at a Harlow primary are celebrating after the school featured in the national top 100 for Key Stage 2 test improvements.

St James Primary School, in Paringdon Road, was ranked among the top primaries for sustained improvement in Year 6 SAT exams. Between 2012 and 2015 the school demonstrated progress in the number of school leavers who attained the Level 4 benchmark in reading, writing and mathematics.

After schools minister Nick

Gibb revealed the list last month, executive headteacher Mary Evans received a letter praising the achievements of staff and pupils.

"I was thrilled to receive the letter as this is a testament to the hard work of all our staff," she said.

Headteacher Gina Bailey added: "The school is committed to continuing to drive towards high standards of educational achievement through the hard work of the children and the professionalism of all our staff."

In brief

Airport police save unconscious woman

ESSEX: Two armed police officers have been praised for saving the life of a woman after she collapsed at Stansted Airport.

PCs Matthew Kemp and Ryan Mitcham were on patrol in the arrivals lounge last Tuesday evening when they responded to the emergency. They administered first aid to the woman, who was not breathing and had suffered a cardiac arrest, until paramedics arrived.

She was then taken to Princess Alexandra Hospital where she recovered and was discharged.

Accused of robbery

HARLOW: A man has been charged with stealing cash from a pensioner on Christmas Eve.

The 76-year-old victim was walking in an underpass between Church Road and Lutton Common Road at around 7.30pm when he was robbed.

Unemployed Jason Blackham, 26, of no fixed abode, appeared at Chelmsford Magistrates Court on Monday. He did not enter a plea and has been remanded in custody until February 15.

Nurse inquest opens

HARLOW: An inquest has been opened into the death of a Princess Alexandra Hospital nurse.

The body of Nicole Maria Teresa Gentili 24, was found on January 4 in a flat she shared with friends.

An inquest at Essex Coroners Court in Chelmsford was adjourned pending the results of histology and toxicology tests.

Homes 'no' vote will not save The Square

Search for new venue goes on despite housing decision

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE Square will not reopen on its current site despite Harlow Council refusing plans to turn the building into housing.

Management company Square One Entertainment has confirmed that the decision "changes nothing" with regards to the closure but assured supporters that they will continue to look for a new venue within the town.

"It's a victory of sorts because Harlow has sent Circle Housing a strong message - that they will not accept the loss of The Square in exchange for a housing development that will do nothing to alleviate the shortage of social housing in the town," a statement from SquareOne said.

"On the other hand, it changes nothing with regard to the fact that The Square is now shut. We are still in talks with Harlow Council to try and find a solution and a revised plan from Circle Housing may yet contain some provision for financial support.

"In the meantime, we continue to plan and look forward to moving into a new town centre venue as soon as the levels of required funding have been achieved."

EYESORE: Plans to redevelop the YWCA site have been rejected by Harlow Council

On Thursday, the council's development management committee refused a planning application from Circle Housing to bulldoze The Square and adjacent YWCA building and replace it with 69 residential buildings, which would be a mixture of houses and flats.

The plans were rejected primarily because of the lack of affordable housing, with just six two-bed flats offered. Councillors also raised concerns about the lack of parking - just 54 spaces - and the loss of The Square.

Discussing the application, Cllr Jean Clark said: "On the face of it, it seems very attractive as it's a dilapidated building at the moment. But on the other hand The Square is a significant asset which we value and we cannot forgive that this is left in limbo."

Objecting to the application Richard Holgarth, of SquareOne, said: "Our objection is quite simply that by approving the development as it stands, it will leave The Square without a home in Harlow."

Colleague Adam Smith added: "It is important for the people of Harlow that the committee regard The Square for what it actually is and that it should be part of the plan for the redevelopment, regardless of where its new home may be."

Circle Housing now has the right to lodge an appeal against the council's decision.

Run through London parks to raise funds for breast unit

FUNDRAISERS for the breast cancer unit at Harlow and Epping hospitals are looking for women to sign up for a half marathon through four London parks.

They are looking for runners to raise money for the unit at Princess Alexandra Hospital and St Margaret's Hospital by taking part in the Royal Parks challenge in October.

The 13.1-mile course through Hyde Park, Kensington Gardens, St James's Park and Green Park passes some of the capital's most prominent landmarks including Buckingham Palace, the London Eye, the Houses of Parliament and the Royal Albert Hall.

Ashraf Patel, associate specialist in breast surgery at PAH, said: "You don't have to be a seasoned runner to take part in this event. You can even walk it but you'll be boosting your fitness and a good cause at the same time."

"We have some spaces left and would love to hear from you. All you need is a £50 deposit to secure your place and sponsorship or a suggested donation of at least £300."

Of the 12,500 runners who took part in last year's run, 73 did so in aid of the unit which has so far received £37,000 with money still coming in.

To book a place for this year's half marathon, which takes place on Sunday, October 9, call the breast clinical trials office on (01279) 827857, email pahbreasttrials@outlook.com or visit The Princess Alexandra Hospital Charitable Trust - Breast Unit on Facebook.

Kevin is the host of kids TV talent show

CELEBRITY personal trainer Kevin Adams is hosting a new television talent show for children.

Got What It Takes? is broadcast every Wednesday on the CBBC channel and sees eight 11-14 year old singers compete for a prize of performing at BBC Radio 1's Big Weekend festival.

"I've loved being a part of the show," said Mr Adams, who is the founder of The Kevin Adams Academy performing arts school in Harlow.

"Every week the kids get a chance to sing and their mums are the judges. There are no eliminations so they all get to learn new things and improve."

Mr Adams uses his experience as a personal trainer to the stars as he takes the role of games guru.

This second element of the show puts contestants' mums through their paces in some wacky workouts. The child of the episode's winning mum will be given a second chance to sing.

"There is one challenge where one mum at a time will get into a giant ball and run inside it towards some skittles. It's great fun!"

■ Got What It Takes? continues its 10-week run on Wednesdays at 4.30pm.

'Worrying' figures show scale of obesity problem

Personal trainer David is helping overweight children to get active

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

YOUNGSTERS are being urged to watch their waistslines after "worrying" figures revealed the extent of Harlow's child obesity problem.

A British Heart Foundation study revealed this week that more than a third (36 per cent) of Year 6 pupils in Harlow were overweight or obese.

"It's worrying that so many children in Harlow are obese or overweight," said BHF policy director Mike Hobday.

"Carrying excess weight into adulthood increases the risk of developing heart disease in later life."

The shocking findings mean 350 children are expected to leave a Harlow primary school obese or overweight this year.

Mr Hobday, 37, of Rushton Grove, said the statistics could be a result of child exposure to takeaway adverts screened alongside popular TV programmes such as the X Factor and Hollyoaks.

"We mustn't allow food companies to bombard TV screens with junk food adverts at times when the highest numbers of children are watching," he added.

"We need to protect young people against the sophisticated marketing techniques of junk food advertisers to help tackle the obesity crisis which threatens the health of future generations."

Personal trainer David Hogg has been holding sports sessions at seven schools before lessons with his business Hogg's Fitness and First Aid.

KEEPING FIT: Personal Trainer David Hogg, with his children Amelia, 10, and Elliot, 7

Under the programme, named Bodycare, booklets were also handed out to 500 pupils from the schools. It's important for children to be active as it can help with their physical and social development," said David.

"There are a lot of people that don't understand what physical activity is all about as they don't have the right opportunities."

"But by following the right pathways, it can develop self-belief and self-respect."

He added: "This eight week programme was optional for children in Years 3-6."

"These were 45 minutes per session with extra 20 minute sessions set as homework."

"Through their fitness tests in week one and week five I was able to see that many of them had improved."

"The free sessions have now come to an end after a £10,000 grant from the Utley Trust ran out. I am hoping to get a second grant so they can continue soon as they are really beneficial."

In brief

Views sought on plan for village Post Office

NORTH WEALD: Villagers are being asked for their views on plans to move the Post Office into a newsagent shop.

The proposal is to relocate the branch from 38 High Road to Bassett News at 20 High Road, offering customers an open plan till at the shop counter instead of a separate screened counter.

The move will result in a seven-day service operating during the shop's existing opening hours of 7am-5pm from Monday to Saturday and 7am-1pm on Sunday.

A six-week consultation is now under way, at the end of which a final decision will be taken.

Comments can be sent by email to comments@postoffice.co.uk, on the customer helpline on 03457 223344 or via an online questionnaire at postofficeviews.co.uk using the branch code 061124.

Decrease in potholes

ESSEX: The number of potholes on the county's roads fell in the last three months of 2015, according to latest figures from Essex County Council.

There were 202 potholes and other defects on main roads at the end of the year, with just 76 on roads classed as priority one – main roads such as A414 – and 126 on priority two routes or B roads. This compares to a total of 258 in the previous quarter.

This represents a fall of 35 per cent on priority one roads and ten per cent on priority two roads.

Potholes on residential roads have also fallen by eight per cent over the same period, down from 4,380.

Air ambulance called

HARLOW: The Essex Air Ambulance was sent to Great Pluntree on Tuesday morning following reports that an elderly man suffered a head injury in a fall.

As well as the helicopter, the East of England Ambulance Service also sent two rapid response vehicles and one ambulance crew.

The man, who is in his 70s, was found to be conscious but had suffered a head injury and blood loss.

He was taken by land ambulance to Princess Alexandra Hospital.

We rely on you to tell us when something isn't quite right . . .

THIS is my first article for the Star and I have a number of areas that I would like cover. But first it's only right that you know something about me.

I am a Harlow lad, my mum moved here in 1951 and my dad in 1952. They lived in the newly-built areas of Tany's Dell and Glebelands. They married in 1964 and I came along a year later.

I still have a large family here and my grandparents lived in Willowfield up until the time of their deaths. I suppose the point I'm making is that I know Harlow and I know the issues.

I have been with Essex Police for 29 years and during that time I have been involved in some high-profile investigations as a detective working across the country. I have even travelled across the world to carry out enquiries.

But I made a conscious decision to move away from my comfort zone and take on the challenge of neighbourhood policing for Harlow.

Perhaps surprisingly, the issues haven't changed that dramatically in the past 29 years, whether it is parking issues, dog fouling or anti-social behaviour. What has changed is our knowledge of the people that live in our community.

It wasn't that long ago that we all knew our neighbours and we all looked out for each other.

My grandad had an allotment and he talked to everyone. I knew exactly what was happening even if I didn't know the people he was talking about. If someone new moved to the street I would get an update and if there was a concern about them he would share that too.

He would discuss issues that we

On the BEAT
by Inspector Paul Maleary

now call vulnerability. It comes in different forms, many of which you may see taking place but not realise the risks to those involved or the way in which you can tell Essex Police about your concerns.

Is your neighbour suffering domestic violence? Does the child next door cry constantly and can be heard begging forgiveness? Is the house next to you occupied by a number of people who come and go at odd hours? Or is it a while since you saw your elderly neighbour during the cold snap?

We take vulnerability of individuals and groups extremely seriously. However, we are reliant on you to tell us when something isn't quite right. Please don't think that you are wasting our time when you report your concerns.

You can contact Essex Police on 101 or, in an emergency, on 999. You can also speak to Crimestoppers anonymously by calling 0800 555111.

We want everyone in Harlow to work with us by telling us what is going on. It's very simple – if you don't tell us, how can we deal with it? Please look out for each other and keep safe.

Court's warning to owner of attack dog

Death sentence hangs over pit bull which escaped from garden

Court Reporter

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE owner of a pit bull terrier which attacked another dog has been warned his animal will be put down if he fails to comply with a string of conditions.

Robert Arnold, 26, of Potters Field, Harlow, appeared in court at Chelmsford on Monday when he pleaded guilty to being in possession or having custody of a fighting dog to which section one of the Dangerous Dogs Act 1991 applied and being the owner of a dog which was dangerously out of control.

The magistrates were told the charges were a result of the attack which took place after the dog, called Chops, escaped from a garden.

Arnold was fined £170 and ordered to pay £100 compensation to the owner of the other dog as well as a £20 victim surcharge.

However, the magistrates did not make an order for the dog, which is a prohibited breed, to be put down.

Instead, they imposed a contingency destruction order which will be activated if the defendant does not comply with conditions laid down in court.

Neutered

Arnold was ordered to ensure his dog is neutered, microchipped, insured, muzzled in public at all times and that it is secured by a 6ft-high fence in the back garden.

Helen Walsh, prosecuting, said the attack took place on October 13 last year at the junction of Perry Spring and Red Lion Lane in Harlow.

"A family was out walking with their King Charles Cavalier when it was approached by the pit bull which began sniffing at it then grabbed it," Ms Walsh told the court. "There was blood in the face area."

"Other people tried to separate the dogs unsuccessfully before someone managed to put a lead on it and tied it to a lamppost." She said police were called and Arnold told them Chops had escaped from the garden through a hole in the fence. When interviewed later, he said he did not know the dog was a prohibited breed.

Peter Butterfield, representing Arnold, said in mitigation the defendant was given the dog by his sister six years ago before the breed became illegal in this country.

He said that after the incident Arnold had repaired the hole in the fence. He had also bought a muzzle and produced a string of supporting letters from members of the his family regarding the behaviour of the dog.

Woman suspected of stealing charity cash box from till of supermarket is caught on camera

POLICE investigating the theft of a charity box from a shop in Harlow town centre have this week issued this picture of a woman they want to question.

The box, which is believed to have contained a three figure sum, was stolen from the till of Polish supermarket Minidelikatesy Kubus in West Gate at 2.30pm on Boxing Day.

The money was destined for a hospice in Poland.

Police said they want to speak to the woman who was captured on CCTV and have asked anyone with information about her identity to call them on the non-emergency 101 number.

Search on for retail partner for Post Office

Franchise plan for town centre branch

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE Post Office is searching for a retail partner to run 39 of its Crown branches, including the one in Harlow town centre, under plans announced on Tuesday.

The Post Office say that moving offices to other sites such as retail outlets maintains and improves services.

But union leaders have warned of job losses and closures under the "modernisation" proposals.

The union said the move is "condemning the service to decline", and pledged to campaign against the proposal locally and nationally as well as consulting its members on what action to take.

Roger Gale, general manager of the Crown office network, said: "We need to continue to make changes to strengthen the network and we have announced that we are seeking suitable potential retail partners to work with us on providing franchised services for 39 branches.

"Losses in the network of Crown Post Office branches have been successfully reduced from £46m a year in 2011/12 and, overall, this part of the network is now breaking even. But with high property costs and restricted growth opportunities in some locations, some Crown branches will not be able to make money."

He added: "We must address this and, like any high street retailer, we have to continue to adapt to customer demands, which our network must reflect. We cannot look to the taxpayer to subsidise Crown branches that lose money."

But CWU assistant secretary Andy Furey said the announcement was devastating news for its members, describing it as "death by a thousand cuts".

"The proposals disregard the wealth of expertise, experience and sense of pride in public duty which is shared by Crown Post Office employees," he said.

"Post Office Ltd should never have been separated from Royal Mail. It should be developing services with Royal Mail and Crown Post Offices should be a one-stop shop for mail, banking, financial and retail services. This trusted public service is being destroyed by lack of imagination and a dash for cash when what it needs is innovation."

CWU deputy general secretary Terry Pullinger added: "Tragically, this is yet another horrendous example of broken promises, irresponsible government and chronic mismanagement by the Post Office."

Kay honoured at care awards

THE dedication of a care home's events organiser earned her a nomination for an award.

Kay Ives, 57, of Corner Meadow, Harlow, was one of the finalists at the Hertfordshire Care Awards in recognition of her work at Willowthorpe Care Home in Stansted Abbots.

"I'm quite shocked as it's not something I expected," she said after the awards ceremony held at Knebworth House.

"It was a lovely evening and it's nice to be recognised."

When Ms Ives took over as the home's lifestyle and activity facilitator she only intended to be in the role for two years. However, nearly a decade later, she was named in the top three for the county awards.

"The plan was only two years so either I can't count or I've really enjoyed it," she said.

"It's a major step in anyone's life to come into a care home but the way I describe it is there's an awful lot of living to do during the time they come in and the time that they go.

"We try to pack it full of memories for them and their families."

Library fines for dementia sufferers are being shelved

PEOPLE suffering from dementia or other conditions causing memory loss will no longer have to count the cost of forgetting to return items borrowed from the county's libraries.

Essex County Council has this week launched a new Memory Support Library Card for people suffering memory loss as a result of dementia, mental health issues or learning difficulties.

Holders of the card will receive the usual reminders that they have a book, DVD or CD that is overdue if it is not returned by the due date but they will be exempt from paying a fine.

Anyone wanting to apply for a card can do so at their local library where the process will be quick and easy. No evidence will be required and anyone with memory problems will be eligible.

Yesterday's introduction of the card coincided with the launch of the Pan Essex Dementia Action Alliance, which aims to raise awareness of dementia while developing dementia-friendly communities and transform the lives of people living with the condition.

County council leader David Finch said "The Memory Support Library Card is a logical step towards easing the stresses of those who have dementia or other conditions which cause memory loss.

"It is important we continue to support these members of our community and assist them wherever possible."

Making time for older people

Can you provide Dusty some home comforts?

THIS is Dusty, a two-year-old ginger female cat who came into our care when she was found in a cat carrier next to a large pile of rubbish by a block of flats in Harlow.

She is now enjoying lots of TLC at her foster home and does not seem to have any ill effects from her ordeal. She is a little underweight and had fleas, but just wants attention and strokes and has come on leaps and bounds in just a few days.

Dusty is not only very special because of how she came into our care but also because the genetic chances of having a ginger female are around one in 10,000. Only a ginger male and ginger female can produce a ginger female kitten and this is still no guarantee.

■ We are currently dealing with an unprecedented amount of abandoned and stray cats in Harlow and as a result we are stretched to the limits, so please get your cats neutered. We offer cat neutering vouchers for only £10.

■ Our advice centre at The Stow will now be open on Tuesday morning from 10am-1pm. A great response to our appeal for new volunteers means we can begin to expand our opening hours. If you feel you could give a few hours a week to help in our advice centre please contact us.

Your chance to shape future of fire service

Residents to have their say on three favoured options for change

Star Reporter

star@hertssexnews.co.uk

CONSULTATIONS on proposals which will shape the future of the county's fire service, including reducing the engines stationed at Harlow from two to one and slashing the number of full-time firefighters, will start in the next few weeks.

Members of Essex Fire Authority agreed last Wednesday to seek the views of the county's residents on three options to shake-up the service as it prepares for the loss of Government funding which currently accounts for 20 per cent of its budget.

Essex County Fire and Rescue Service says it must take action now to meet the changing demands in the coming years which will involve a reduction in incidents, an increased focus on prevention and a commitment to become financially sustainable.

Last year it carried out the first stage of the largest public consultation exercise it has ever undertaken and has since been working with external specialists to produce detailed models showing the effects any changes will have on the response to incidents.

It is now about to embark on the second phase of consultations on three sets of options which it says will ensure crews reach all life-threatening calls in an average of 10 minutes and 90 per cent of all incidents within 15 minutes.

Essex Fire Authority chairman Anthony Hedley said: "The options we are consulting on will ensure that Essex County Fire and Rescue Service is ready for the significant challenges in the future."

"All three options create the right balance in how the service will resource its prevention, protection and response responsibilities while remaining financially sustainable."

Mr Hedley added: "This consultation gives everyone in the county a chance to have their say as we move to make the changes which will allow the service to adapt to the future challenges it faces."

"Nothing has yet been decided so we will carefully examine the results of the consultation before coming to our final decision in June."

Acting Chief Fire Officer Adam Eckley said: "We have already seen huge changes in the way we work in the last decade. The number of incidents we attend has halved and we, and other UK fire and rescue services, now face dramatic reductions in the way in which we're funded."

"We have created these options to make sure that we can continue to save lives, prevent injury and reduce risk by having the right resources in the right place to keep Essex safe."

"These options will now form the backbone of the second part of the largest consultation we have ever undertaken as we ask the people of Essex to let us know which of the plans they prefer. It is vital that the public and partner organisations make their voice heard by taking part."

The consultations will start next month and last for 12 weeks before a final decision is made in the summer.

OPTION ONE (projected saving £8.6m)

Under this proposal the service would have 64 fire engines, 15 of which are wholetime and 49 on-call. The second fire engine would be removed from fire stations at Orsett, Rayleigh, Loughton, Southend, Grays, Corringham and Frinton. Crewing of the second fire engine at Harlow and Clacton would be changed from wholetime to on-call. These changes would see a reduction in watch-based wholetime firefighters from 570 to 360 and an increase in on-call firefighters from 437 to 466.

OPTION TWO (projected saving £6.4m)

Under this proposal the service would have 66 fire engines, 18 of which are wholetime and 48 are on-call. The second fire engine would be removed from fire stations at Orsett, Rayleigh, Loughton, Corringham and Frinton. Crewing of the second fire engine at Clacton would be changed from wholetime to on-call. These changes would see a reduction in watch-based wholetime firefighters from 570 to 423 and an increase in on-call firefighters from 437 to 456.

OPTION THREE (projected saving £10m)

Under this proposal the service would have 64 fire engines, 14 of which are wholetime and 50 are on-call. The second fire engine would be removed from fire stations at Harlow, Orsett, Rayleigh, Loughton, Southend, Grays and Clacton. Crewing of Brentwood Fire Station would be changed from wholetime to on-call. These changes would see a reduction in watch-based wholetime firefighters from 570 to 336 and an increase in on-call firefighters from 437 to 467.

Based on the best selling book by Steven Lee, this charming family musical has been written especially for children aged three and above.

A degree of '70s soul

GODMOTHERS of soul The Three Degrees are celebrating 50 years in the biz by performing hits for fans old and new.

While the songs of most 1970s groups are only performed by tribute bands, the Philadelphia ladies are as active and glamorous as ever.

The Three Degrees are playing at Harlow Playhouse on Wednesday, March 16, as part of an extensive UK tour that will take in 31 locations across the country.

Original members Valerie Holiday and Helen Scott were joined by Freddie Pool in 2011 as a replacement for the late Fayette Pinkney.

The power trio have been making music since their formation in 1963, but it took some time for the ladies to really hit their stride.

Helen said the success of The Three Degrees was earned the hard way.

"I remember taking the bus to rehearsals every day and we'd practice until 9pm, even on the weekends," she said.

"Gradually we started to make noise outside of Philadelphia and we went to Pittsburgh, into Ohio and Rhode Island. But all this was at weekends, as at that stage we were still at school.

"We were just happy-go-lucky teenagers and had no expectations, we did it for the sheer pleasure of the music. We just wanted to sing!

"I remember getting my first TV paycheck of $90 and I thought I'd hit the jackpot. That was a lot of money to a teenager."

After some notable singles made the fringes of the chart the perseverance finally paid off for the girls with signature hit When Will I See You Again? which was a UK number one in 1974.

This led to a string of classic singles, including The Sound of Philadelphia (TSOP), Woman in Love, The Runner and Take Good Care of Yourself.

"Those early recordings were different to how we would record now," added Helen.

"We would record with a live band all in one room at the same time."

During this golden '70s period the group received worldwide recognition and were even named by Prince Charles as his favourite band.

Despite line-up changes over the years, due to Helen's marriage and different commitments, the band continued to be popular.

Their 1998 festive number Last Christmas completed a remarkable 33-year period between their first and most recent top 40 entry.

The history-making girls are also proud bearers of a world record for being the longest running female group in history and in 2013, celebrated their 50th anniversary.

Helen said she is proud of the legacy the band has created and is enjoying playing the classic hits to a new generation of fans.

"We have opened a lot of doors for other entertainers," she said.

"In some cases, we may not have always succeeded, but we have never given up. It still amazes me when we see teenagers singing along with our songs.

"And yet we still have the fans who have grown up with us."

With their iconic dance moves and pioneering music that helped to bring soul into the mainstream, the Degrees have achieved enough for most bands to retire on.

However, the ladies are still focused on recording new material and the latest tour will coincide with the release of a new album.

The latest album, Strategy, which is out now on SoulMusic records, sees the band go back to their routes with a tribute to their hometown Philadelphia.

Helen said: "This album holds a special place for me. I was raised in Philly and my exposure to the music of many Philadelphia artists was vast.

"There is love and a message in our music."

Choir raises arresting amount

A POLICE choir is celebrating a successful year of raising money through song.

A series of concerts in 2015 saw Essex Police Choir raise £9,000 for charitable organisations.

All performances are held for free, with a collection of donations.

Choir member Mark Lawrence said the whole community can profit from the police's work.

"We have had a very successful year, raising £5,000 for organisations who invited us to sing and another £4,000 for our own charities."

"The objective of the choir, which has been running for more than 26 years, is to enable churches, charities and groups to raise money for themselves.

"In this time, the choir has raised in excess of £300,000. Last year, we donated the proceedings of our main concert in Chelmsford Cathedral and a carol concert, giving £2,000 each to Colchester Young Carers Centre and the Friends of Broomfield Hospital."

Hal is straight outta Enfield!

WITH a show that merges middle-class snobbery with gangster rap aggression, comedian Hal Cruttenden is striking out against conformity.

The Mock the Week and Have I Got News star is back with another long tour which will take him to Harlow Playhouse on Thursday, March 3.

The 46-year-old said the NWA derived show name Straight Outta Cruttenden is more fitting than you might think.

"When I came up with the name I didn't even know the movie would be coming out," he explained.

"It came about as a title as I have been listening to NWA a lot recently, it's probably a midlife crisis, but I'm finding gangster rap strangely therapeutic."

Straight Outta Cruttenden won't be Hal's one man tribute to Ice Cube, Easy-E and Dr Dre – and the only musical theme is a segment on posh sounding song names.

"There won't be any rapping," he laughed. "That's been done a lot by other comedians, I knew a guy who did this really funny bit where he would be this character who wore a suit and started rapping in received pronunciation."

"The show is really about me and the name is just a way in. It's about getting older and I'll talk about my family a bit, there's also a bit about death but I'll do it in a funny way."

"But mostly it's just me, a slightly camp guy, getting angry a lot of the time!"

The tour has already taken Hal all over the country, but he plans to do it all again and begins part two this Friday in Norwich before finishing in Salisbury in June.

He'll follow that up with a few dates in Australia while he is also writing the second series to his critically acclaimed BBC Radio 4 comedy Hal.

"I have taken a Christmas break, and I'm just getting back into work which is quite daunting."

"For a comedian I think as soon as you stop for a bit you kind of lose some of your form, but after a few rehearsals I know I'll be fine."

"Comedy is so personal. It's only about things that are going on in your life, and I talk about my two daughters aged 13 and 15 quite a lot."

"They are so rude to me! They say things that I would never have said to my parents. They always joke about me being camp, and when I was watching a film with the younger one she said we were having a girl's night in. Of course that kind of thing gets used quite a lot in my material – it's too good."

"I've also recently left Facebook as some of the self-indulgent things people write just drive me over the edge."

"What really annoys me is that we are now seeing people putting up their own tributes to celebrities who have died, like Alan Rickman and David Bowie, people they have never met and talking about how their lives have been affected."

"But I do say this as someone who is hugely self-obsessed. I think I'm the only person who should be allowed to talk about himself!"

Originally from Ealing, in west London, Hal now lives with his wife and daughters in Enfield which makes Harlow Playhouse quite an easy commute compared to other shows.

He said he has some history with the town and always feels that he can be himself within an Essex theatre.

"That will be a lovely, easy trip," he laughed about the prospect of coming to Harlow.

"I remember the first time I came to Harlow the performance was at The Square for a comedy night hosted by John Mann. It was the night of the 1999 Champions League final when Manchester United were playing Bayern Munich. I remember someone coming in and saying Man U had won, and there was a groan across the crowd. That was the first of many shows I was to do in Harlow."

"I did Harlow Playhouse as part of the 2014 Tough Luvvie tour and Essex audiences are just the best audiences as we can just say anything. It's relaxing."

■ Hal Cruttenden will perform Straight Outta Cruttenden at Harlow Playhouse on Thursday, March 3. Tickets cost £14.50 to £16.50 and can be bought from www.playhouseharlow.com.

Shakespeare buffs keep the knowledge in the family

FATHER and son Shakespeare experts David and Ben Crystal consider watching productions as the key to understanding the Bard's plays.

In the 400th anniversary year of the English playwright's death, the pair will discuss his legacy on stage in Bishop's Stortford.

Prolific author David, 75, has received an OBE for his work as a linguist and academic on the English language. Son Ben, 38, is an actor and has also authored books on Shakespeare with his dad.

A ground-breaking project saw the pair work together to put original pronunciation plays of the Bard's work on at the Globe Theatre in London.

Ahead of their talk at Bishop's Stortford College Festival of Literature on February 7, the Star talked to the pair.

What's the essence of unlocking Shakespeare?

David: For a linguist, destroying the myths. For instance, pointing out that the language isn't as difficult as people think it is – only five per cent of the words are seriously different from Modern English.

But the crucial point is getting people to see the plays before they read them. Nothing worse than being forced to read a text full of academic notes without ever having enjoyed the play as a play.

I wonder how many of your readers were put off Shakespeare in school because of that.

Ben: Instead of reading it, it's important to go and see it. Those plays were written at a time when 80 per cent of the audience couldn't read. It's certainly better to see the plays on stage than written in a book – the opposite way to how it's done in school.

They are meant to be learnt by heart by a very small group of actors interpreting his words. There are a finite number of clues he left to get a way in to what he was trying to say.

It was only when I started acting that I really found an interest. I remember hating him at school. Now I work with him every day.

I've found myself on a mission to spread the word of the Bard.

What was it like putting on the Shakespeare plays in their original pronunciation at the Globe?

D: Hugely exhilarating. The acoustic at the Globe is excellent, and I got a real thrill from knowing that the words were being spoken as they once were, for the first time in 400 years.

To hear a word like 'war' (which rhymed with 'far') resounding around the space was thrilling. Then, to hear the OP spoken for the first time by a company of professional actors was the proof, for me, that all my research had a real point.

B: Dad was at the Globe working on original pronunciation explorations and I was not that interested in it until I was told that the characters were moving differently.

In Shakespeare plays I'd seen, people were sounding great, with big voices, but moving very little. It was like a whole new way of acting, speaking much faster too, which was really exciting.

What's your favourite Shakespeare play and why?

D: The next one I'm involved in, whether as a consultant, dialect coach, or actor. Every Shakespeare play has the potential to be a favourite.

B: I love King Lear. It's a play that I studied at A-level. I didn't like it at the time but I've played him and have come to love it.

What's it like working with each other?

D: It's great, because he brings a different perspective, as a practitioner. We can also discuss points more intimately because of the relationship.

B: It's the best, you know. I think the first time we worked together there were things we couldn't quite agree with. We would have a debate, shall we say. But it's a testament to him as a man; he has always been terribly generous as a collaborator.

The only thing is I might have finished a book and feel great, but I'll go to him and he will have written many more. He's a very fast writer.

And a bonus question, as suggested by Ben. What's it like working with your wonderful son?

D: I imagine a similar feeling to any son who finds himself working with a wonderful, wonderful father.

INTERVIEW

Child star Chloe Grace is getting all grown up

THE notion of heading up a mammoth sci-fi movie might prove daunting to some actors, but Chloe Grace Moretz, who takes on the lead in new big budget offering The 5th Wave, took it all in her stride.

"I've done action since I was 11 years old," notes the confident 18-year-old, who previously starred as Mindy Macready, aka Hit Girl, in 2010 cult classic Kick-Ass.

"Action is my second hand. It's super fun and easy for me, and it's exciting to see fighting done in close quarters."

The movie, the first of a planned trilogy, is based on acclaimed 2013 book of the same name, by Rick Yancey.

The follow-up novel, The Infinite Sea, was met with similar praise in 2014, while the third book, The Last Star, is set to be published this spring.

In the story, Earth comes under attack in increasingly destructive waves: an electromagnetic pulse, earthquake, disease and so on, leaving most of the planet decimated.

Against this backdrop, high school student Cassie (Moretz) finds herself on the run, desperately trying to save her younger brother and preparing for the inevitable, and lethal, fifth wave.

"Yes, it has amazing action and thriller elements, but it had a real, human story behind it, which I found interesting," says Moretz, who grew up with four older brothers in America's Atlanta, Georgia.

"Cassie Sullivan's a great heroine but she'd never describe herself that way. She'd say she's just a girl who has lost her brother, and will do whatever it takes to get back to him."

"You see her youthful and contemplative and confused and lost, and trying to find her way in and out of different areas. It was exciting."

The role required the actress, along with many of the young cast members, to handle a gun, and Moretz acknowledges the depiction of any young person holding a firearm is "harrowing".

"I think it's depicted very well in this film. Guns aren't exciting in this movie," she adds. "They're very realistic. She's never held a gun before in her entire life, until her father hands her her first gun."

"J [Blakeson, the director] is British and he comes from a very interesting perspective on guns, compared to a lot of the American directors that you might talk to. And the way he depicts it was very, very smart, because he made it what guns need to be, which is that it's a life or death situation."

"There's no way out for her except for this. And when her father hands her that gun, you feel the entire movie shift and you go, 'Oh whoa, this is getting very realistic'."

At the heart of the story are the questions anyone faces as they make the transition to adulthood - not least of which is: who can I trust?

"In the movie, just like in real life, you can't tell if someone is good or bad just by looking at them," Blakeson, who helmed 2009's The Disappearance Of Alice Creed, has noted. "Often in movies, the bad guy looks one way and the good guy looks another way, and it's easy to tell them apart. In this movie, everybody [including the aliens referred to as the 'Others'] looks the same. Trust no one if you want to survive, but you've got to learn to trust people if you're going to win the war."

Moretz adds: "Cassie's really affected by the whole 'trust no one' idea - everyone could potentially be a threat."

"She wants to think she can trust people, but every time she does, something flips on its head. She realises she is always let down when she begins to trust someone, and so she ends up just trusting herself."

Moretz was only a child when she appeared alongside Ryan Reynolds and Melissa George in the 2005 remake of The Amityville Horror.

Over the next decade, she worked consistently in TV and film, until landing her breakout role as Hit Girl, followed by a starring role in Matt Reeves' 2010 remake of Let Me In, which earned Moretz a place on TIME magazine's prestigious Top 10 Performances of the Year list.

She's since starred in Martin Scorsese's Hugo, Tim Burton's Dark Shadows, a sequel to Kick-Ass, Tina Fey's TV sitcom 30 Rock and, more recently, a remake of the classic horror Carrie alongside Julianne Moore, plus The Equalizer opposite Denzel Washington.

She appears to be making the transition from 'child star' to 'young adult actor' look effortless.

"I've been really lucky. A lot of people have a very difficult time with it, but for me, ever since I broke with 500 Days Of Summer [she played main character Tom's straight-talking little sister] and Kick-Ass, I've been allowed into a more adult viewing world," she says.

"I feel like they never saw me as a little sister, they saw me more as a counterpart."

Despite growing up in the spotlight, Moretz has managed to retain a pretty low profile, even when she was spotted with the eldest Beckham boy, Brooklyn, back in 2014.

"I feel lucky in the sense that I do have a lot of anonymity. Even now when I go to Disneyland or a movie theatre, I can pretty much fly under the radar," she reasons.

"As long as I'm not pretending I'm not famous, no one cares. You just walk around in your T-shirt and pants and everyone thinks you're a normal girl like everyone else."

Her next movie is Bad Neighbours 2, a follow-up to the 2014 original comedy, which reunites Zac Efron, Seth Rogen and Rose Byrne.

"Zac is a sweetheart, Seth's a sweetheart and Rose is amazing. It was such a fun cast and we had a really raucous, wild time together," recalls Moretz.

"When you see the trailer come out for that, you guys are going to have your minds blown a little bit with me."

WEEK

The Big Short

DRAMA (15) 130 mins

Director: Adam McKay

Starring: Christian Bale, Steve Carell, Ryan Gosling, Brad Pitt, Rafe Spall, Hamish Linklater

A fool and his hard-earned money are soon parted and in 2008, many of us turned out to be unwitting fools when the mortgage crisis in America catalysed the collapse of financial institutions, resulting in an ice age of global austerity that has yet to thaw.

Bankers were demonised, political establishment passed bucks as if they were handling red-hot potatoes and hard-working families paid an eye-watering price.

The Wall Street meltdown doesn't sound like ripe fruit for a cocktail of potty-mouthed hilarity and heartbreaking drama, but Adam McKay, director of the Anchorman films, begs to differ.

Stepping away from the dim-witted Will Ferrell comedies that have made his name, McKay draws inspiration from Michael Lewis' non-fiction account of the housing and credit bubble to dramatise the incredible true story of the men who made a killing by wagering against the US economy.

"While the whole world was having a big ol' party, a few outsiders and weirdos saw what no one else could," explains sharp-suited narrator, Jared Vennett (Ryan Gosling), a bond salesman at Deutsche Bank with a keen nose for profits.

He is our wise-cracking guide to this high-pressure world of bulls, bears and multi-million dollar trades.

However, Jared is not the first person to spot impending doom.

That honour goes to quixotic hedge fund manager Michael Burry (Christian Bale).

"It's a time bomb... and I want to short it," Burry informs his incredulous boss (Tracy Letts) and bets against the housing market.

Jared gets wind of the deal and follows suit, drawing in deeply cynical hedge fund manager Mark Baum (Steve Carell) and his team: Danny Moses (Rafe Spall), Porter Collins (Hamish Linklater) and Vinnie Daniel (Jeremy Strong).

Inexperienced investors Charlie Geller (John Magaro) and Jamie Shipley (Finn Wittrock) use personal ties to retired banker Ben Rickert (Brad Pitt) to orchestrate their own high-risk bets as financial authorities ignore warning signs and Lehman Brothers prepares to fall.

The Big Short is a blisteringly funny and provocative portrait of irresponsibility, fraud and gaudy excess, brought vividly to life by a superb ensemble cast.

Carell and Bale shine brightest in the glittering firmament, imbuing their socially awkward oddballs with vulnerability, guilt and regret.

McKay's film is acutely aware that most of us don't speak the Wall Street lingo, so the writer-director cutely interrupts the wheeler dealing with glossy edutainment spots.

Wolf Of Wall Street star Margot Robbie sexes up subprime mortgages while sipping champagne in a bubble bath, celebrity chef Anthony Bourdain explains a collateralised debt obligation (CDO) using leftover seafood, and actress and singer Selena Gomez makes sense of synthetic CDOs over a game of blackjack.

We might not always keep up with McKay's dazzling film and its rapid-fire, whip-smart dialogue, but by the end credits, we're not far behind.

ENTHUSIASTIC: Tom Kerridge

Tom Kerridge is grinning. "The other week I had to transport something to the Kent coast via North London in a white van," he says. "I had my arm out the window, my boxer dog sat next to me in the front, and I was picking up big pieces of metal and sticking them in a transit van. I loved it – I was in my element."

You can't doubt it.

A big burr of a man, the Salisbury-born chef is all Adidas shell suits and West Country twangs, but he's just as at home in his two-star Michelin pub, The Hand And Flowers, in Marlow, and is currently celebrating his third cookbook, Tom's Table.

It's all about "extracting as much flavour as possible" from food, "and making it social", he explains. "They're all recipes and dishes that I do eat, want to eat and make at home."

One of his favourites is the "phenomenal" green chilli con carne. "It's dry roasted mince, it goes really crispy – tastes fantastic," he says, going off into a reverie.

When he first started cooking, for his little brother after school, the menu was a tad less gourmet and featured a lot of fish finger sandwiches, Findus Crispy Pancakes and Birds Eye Potato Waffles.

"I don't still cook those things – that's a complete lie actually! My wife Beth was desperate for a fish finger sandwich last week, so I did make her one," he says, ruefully.

His celebrity clientele wouldn't appreciate that kind of fare though. The Hand has served Liam Neeson, Tom Jones, George Clooney and Bill Murray, although annoyingly Kerridge missed Murray. "I was absolutely gutted," he admits, adding he was with his wife in hospital after she had an operation.

They also get quite a few premier league footballers in, and Kerridge loves his football.

"A pub is part of a community and if we can help another community project like Marlow FC, then we do in any way we can," he says passionately. "Young chefs, young footballers; there's a synergy. By the age of 40, you're too tired to be doing 18-hour days cooking in the sauce section. It's the same for footballers; you're not going to be running round the pitch."

Between TV commitments, the books and the pubs, it's difficult to imagine 42-year-old Kerridge slowing down.

Here's one of the recipes from Tom's Table to sink your teeth into...

Green Chilli Con Carne

SERVES 6-8

Ingredients

1kg minced pork
1tbsp cumin seeds
1tbsp dried thyme
2 onions, diced
4 garlic cloves, finely grated
2 green peppers, cored, deseeded and diced

8 green chillies, chopped (seeds and all)

6 ripe tomatoes, deseeded and chopped

150ml water

½ bunch of spring onions, trimmed and chopped

2tsp salt, or to taste

1tsp cracked black pepper

Bunch of mint, stalks removed, leaves shredded

Zest and juice of 2 unwaxed limes

To serve:

Wholemilk yoghurt

Tortillas

Green salad

Method

Heat a large, non-stick frying pan over a medium-high heat. When it's hot, add the minced pork, cumin seeds and thyme and dry-fry for 10-15 minutes, breaking up the meat and stirring frequently, until it's dry, browned and crispy.

Using a slotted spoon, transfer the browned spicy meat to a bowl. Drain off any excess fat, keeping a little in the pan to cook the vegetables.

Return the pan to a medium-low heat. Add the onions and garlic and cook for about 10 minutes, until softened. Stir in the green peppers and chillies and cook for a further few minutes, then return the browned meat to the pan. Give everything a good stir and cook for another five minutes.

Pour the water into the pan, add the tomatoes and bring to the boil. Turn the heat to its lowest setting and let the chilli bubble away, uncovered, for around 15-25 minutes, until a lot of the liquid has evaporated. You want the mixture to be juicy but not too liquid and saucy.

Stir in the spring onions, salt and pepper. Finally, stir through the mint, and the lime zest and juice, and allow to bubble for a couple more minutes.

Take off the heat and leave to stand for 10 minutes to let the flavours develop.

Serve with yoghurt and tortillas, with a crisp green salad on the side, if you like.

Our job is all about listening

We had Ricci from your office come out to us just before Christmas for an informal chat and the possibility of us coming onto the market as a rental property with Intercounty.

Ricci was so well informed giving us excellent advice and information as first time landlords this was so valuable and feeling in safe hands thanks to Ricci's visit we had no hesitation in choosing Intercounty.

Ricci's customer service is excellent and I'm a stickler for giving praise/complaining when necessary so wanted to email in.

Looking forward to using you as our agents in Harlow.

Regards

The second and third bedrooms are comfortable doubles with an en suite shower and separate family bathroom to compliment these. The fourth and fifth bedrooms are smaller with the fifth bedroom adapted to make a superb dressing room to the main bedroom however this can be put back to be a bedroom easily. The rear gardens have been thoughtfully landscaped to the front, is ample off street parking.

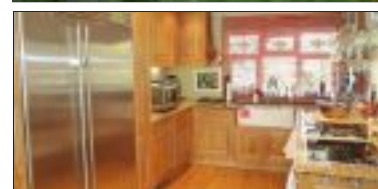

MULBERRY GREEN, OLD HARLOW

"..An Amazing Bungalow With An Equally Amazing Kitchen.."

Probably one of the most attractive streets in the old town, Mulberry Green has so much character and is within the local conservation area as well. "Smiles" is a classic, modern bungalow with a difference. Many windows overlooking the gorgeous gardens with a big garden room tucked away in a sunny corner. Handmade bedroom furniture and then the kitchen, outstanding, would impress even Mary Berry or Jamie, has to be seen.

TESTED: Audi R8

David Ward

IT'S without question the best 'everyday supercar' around, packed to the gunnels with the latest on-board car technology available and capable of a top speed of 205mph.

Obviously it's not cheap either coming in at a mere £119,500 for the 533bhp version and from £134,500 for the alternative 602bhp model, both powered by the same 5.2-litre V10 engine.

But it's clearly not put off some would-be punters because already well over 100 UK orders have been placed for this latest Audi R8 two-seater, mid-engined supercar which is the fastest and most powerful road-going Audi ever built.

The first R8 launched here in 2007 lured 3,908 true and dedicated supercar motorists to splash the cash on this iconic car and there's no question either that its successor will see buyers queuing up to join such an elite band of owners.

Audi, naturally using much of their high brow technical know-how gained from repeated winning successes on the race track such as the Le Mans 24-hour races, have in this new R8 produced the ultimate advanced quattro all-wheel-drive supercar using the latest state-of-the-art engineering and electronic components.

Loyal supercar fans may be disappointed that Audi has dropped the V8 engine and the choice of a manual gearbox this time around but they've replaced it with an outstanding and slightly more civilised V10 power train coupled with an excellent performing twin-clutch seven-speed automatic gearbox.

The on the road result is sensational with 0-62mph acceleration in just 3.2 seconds, claimed 0 to 124mph (where it's allowed) in 9.9 seconds and an overall sports driving experience second to none.

Crucially it's equally at home for everyday motoring nipping in and out traffic when sensibly driven around in cities and urban area let alone out on our motorways but everywhere it will undoubtedly become the head turning car of the year with its stunning looks.

Those more environmentally minded motorists amongst us worried about this new car's 'green' credentials - around CO2 of 287g/km for the faster model and an average of 23mpg - had better wait until next year when the 'softy' all-electric powered model arrives here.

In the meantime, for the true petrol heads this pair of new R8s will fit the bill in every department when the first models start arriving here later this month because for starters it's around 50 kilograms lighter but 40 per cent stiffer than the old car, thanks to a great use of aluminium in what Audi calls their space frame construction system.

Even though it has more power and torque (maximum torque is 6,800rpm) fuel consumption is better this time around (24.8mpg on the combined cycle) and it has more road-going grip, traction and overall balance making it much easier for everyday use by owners.

This R8 of course is neither turbocharged or supercharged - it's naturally aspirated and that means the exhaust sound coming out at the back is fantastic.

The driver is burbling along extremely civilised one minute and then with a gentle click of the paddles on the steering wheel the car moves up and down gears so smoothly and quietly along with a quite delightful variation in sound levels to go along with each change.

Once the driver then switches the all important sports exhaust system on the response is so exciting with the resultant crackle-and-pop sound coming out at the back makes it a real boys' toy no matter what speed the car is doing.

The driver has settings for either comfort or dynamic sporty driving modes plus there's an extra performance level on the slightly more powerful V10 Plus version which alters the steering, transmission, exhaust flaps and in a few more areas.

Personally the most enjoyable way to truly drive this car is to bring the throttle in gradually and reap the benefits of what is certainly a fast and rapid supercar and of course with that Quattro four-wheel-drive automatically on tap even with all its speedy acceleration available the result is some sure-footed driving.

It really is a safe supercar too and thanks here to the optional magnetic suspension, which is a kind of intelligent manner in choosing to adjust the dampers almost instantaneously, to providing a comfortable ride but at the same time providing a much firmer suspension when you are driving quickly.

Another piece of new technology on board is for night time driving with its LED headlights and tail-lights plus the option of laser main beams.

One area most drivers familiar with such sporty Audi cars will immediately notice is the improvement to the S tronic gearbox where the shifts are quicker and certainly smoother with Audi engineers claiming there's now no torque drop between gear changes.

This is certainly impressive out on the road as I discovered and such is this latest change it means the system can now push 100 per cent of the torque to the front or rear depending on need.

It's all really clever stuff this and with that fantastic cacophony of sound that comes out from a V10 engine particularly if you press that sports exhaust button which opens up all four tailpipes there's really nothing around to match it all. Thankfully, the brakes are superb because you need them to stop this car when in full flight!

The ride itself is surprisingly comfortable for such a raucous and outrages supercar while in the two-seater cabin the quality of finish is outstanding with a pleasant blend of style along with ergonomics.

Naturally interior space is limited but such cars like the R8 are hardly practical with boot space minuscule just like Porsches and other rivals.

Verdict: Any true supercar enthusiast with the big bank balance available to be able to buy such a car should really go for this excellent new R8.

Yes, it's faster than both Porsche 911 Turbo S and new McLaren 570S but everything is just good about this new R8, it simply answers everything required and is so easy drive.

It's devastatingly fast of course but feels so reassuring and safe for the driver whatever speeds are officially clocked up.

Spending this kind of money for a supercar is difficult because there are rivals around like the two already mentioned, plus the long established Aston Martin V12 Vantage and Mercedes-Benz AMG GT.

But this latest R8 clearly has the edge in my book - and go for the slightly more powerful (and expensive) Plus version because it's worth it.

THE ICON RELOADED

We've made the new Fiat 500 even more quintessentially 500. Dapper patterned front grille, dazzling front lights, red hot halo-style rear lights and radio with USB and Aux-in connectivity are amongst many screamingly stylish touches. And we've made it even easier to get one too. Have a look at the table below. You'll find it's a cut above.

STYLISHLY CUT

Clement Clarke International has been a major force in the manufacturing of innovative medical instrumentation worldwide since 1917.

Production Engineer

We are looking for an experienced Production Engineer to assist in the smooth production and development of new and existing products and manufacturing processes. You will provide support to the Production team with process changes, projects, investigations, prototyping, problem solving, bills of materials, costs and routings. You will also be responsible for analysing the current production process and the introduction of lean manufacturing techniques. You will also work with Design Engineering to improve the manufacturability of our current products.

You will need to have experience in a production engineering role related to electro-mechanical and moulded component assemblies. You will need a full understanding of bills of materials and process routing creation together with the ability to compile shop floor process instructions and safe working procedures. We are looking for someone who has a flexible approach to work, is detail conscious and who enjoys problem solving. You should also be a team player with excellent communication skills. You should have experience of managing and implementing projects together with excellent computer skills.

To apply please send a full CV with covering letter, quoting your current salary to Mrs Kennedy Reed, Human Resources Manager, Clement Clarke International, Edinburgh Way, Harlow, Essex CM20 2TT. Or e-mail kreed@clement-clarke.com.

The Princess Alexandra Hospital NHS
NHS Trust

Recruitment Event Family & Women's Health Group

Friday 29 January 2016, 9.00am - 5.00pm at Parndon Hall,
Hamstel Road, Harlow, CM20 1QX

If you're looking for your next role, you'll feel right at home in Harlow. The Princess Alexandra Hospital delivers acute services across West Essex and East Hertfordshire from an excellent location just 25 minutes from London and Stansted Airport – and it's a great place to work.

With multiple opportunities to move internally and experience to be gained in a variety of departments, alongside our preference to promote from within and offer personal development – we encourage staff to grow.

We currently have vacancies in the following areas:

Midwife

Job Ref: 292-N025-14

Salary: Band 6 £26,041 - £34,876 pa plus 5% Fringe High Cost Area Supplement (between £951-£1,649) and out of hours shift supplements.

Part time and full time vacancies available.

Neonatal Sister/Charge Nurse

Job Ref: 292-N026-14

Salary: Band 6 £26,041 - £34,876 pa, Full or part time hours.

Staff Nurses Neonatal Unit

Job Ref: 292-N020-14

Salary: Band 5 £21,692 - £28,180 pa, Full and part time hours.

Sister/Nurse in Charge Dolphin Ward

Job Ref: 292-N056-14

Salary: Band 6 £26,041 - £34,876 pa, Full and part time hours.

Staff Nurse Dolphin Ward

Job Ref: 292-N057-14

Salary: Band 5 £21,692 - £28,180 plus HCAs and shift allowances.

A recent CQC inspection revealed several areas of outstanding practice:

- The acting ward manager for the Dolphin Children's ward had made a significant improvement in a short time to the ward and showed outstanding leadership and determination.
- The play specialist, providing dedicated time to fundraise to purchase toys and set up playgroups for the children, was outstanding.
- The teenage zone within the children's ward was outstanding and was very responsive to the needs of teenagers.
- The gynaecology outpatient and emergency service as a function, including the termination of pregnancy service was outstanding and provided a very responsive service.
- The outcomes for women in the maternity service were outstanding and comparable with units in the top quartile of all NHS trusts.

We're delighted with the reports conclusions as it supports the hard work and dedication from our staff. So if you would like to work for a hard working organisation, please apply now.

For further information about the Recruitment Event, please contact Vimbai Mathe on 01279 827977 Ext. 7974.

YOUR STARS WITH

ARIES MARCH 21 - APRIL 20

A more artistic side to your personality evolves which opens up many new avenues for you on both a personal and professional level. Time spent with faces from your past helps you tie up a lot of loose ends. You find it possible to move on as was never previously possible. Financial opportunity comes from contacts you made since the New Year. Ring now for the full story.

TAURUS APRIL 21 - MAY 21

If you are truly loved, then you will be given the freedom of choice you want. That is why this week you question who should be in your life and who you need to distance yourself from. A more intense personal life means it's decision time, but ensure it's you who decides and not just friends or family. Ring now to hear how Uranus gives you the freedom to change jobs should you desire.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 349 65p per minute

GEMINI MAY 22 - JUNE 21

Travel links are strong and you find yourself more confident to explore new places and to talk to strangers. You're more at peace with who you are, and rightly so. An exchange of words which occurred last week needs to be tied up before Friday. Show you can be the bigger person please Gemini. Ring now to hear why it's worth saying yes to impromptu invitations this January.

FOR WEEKLY AND MONTHLY READINGS CALL 0911 8532 350 65p per minute

CANCER JUNE 22 - JULY 22

It's time to do your sums and to work out what you can and can't afford to spend as February will be offering you the chance to try out all sorts of new things and it's important that you know what and who should be your priority. Your love sector promises you a memorable and very dramatic week, as you'll soon discover for yourself. Ring now to hear who you mustn't argue with.

Essex County Council

(Various Roads, Cross District)
(Temporary Prohibition of Traffic)
Order 2016

Notice is hereby given that the Essex County Council intends, not less than seven days from the date of this notice, to make the above Order under Section 14(1) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984.

Effect of the order: To temporarily close the various lengths of road in the Districts of Epping Forest, Harlow and Uttlesford as specified:

Road	Description	Alternative route	Phase 1 dates
A113 Ongar Road, Lambourne/Stapleford Abbots	From its junction with A113 Passingford Road, Roundabout to its junction with B172 Abbridge Road. HGV's will not be permitted access from Gravel Lane.	A113 Abbridge Road, Chigwell Lane, Rectory Lane, A121, B1393 Epping Road, B181 Epping Road, A113 London Road.	01/02/2016 - 02/02/2016 (20:00h-06:00h)
Anchor Lane, Abbess Roding/Matching	From its junction with Potash Road to its junction with Snow's Farm Lane.	Sparrow Lane, A1060, Church Lane, Matching Lane, Snow's Farm Lane.	01/02/2016 - 12/02/2016
B175 Stapleford Road, Stapleford Abbots	From its junction with A113 Passingford Road, Roundabout up to the Essex/Havering boundary.	A113 London Road, A112 Gravel Lane, B174 Romford Rd, B1459 Chase Cross Road	03/02/2016 - 09/02/2016 (20:00h-06:00h)
B183 Sheering Road, Sheering	From its junction with B183 Churchgate Street Roundabout to its junction with Coach Horse (Private Road).	B183 Gilden Way, A414, B184 Dunmow Rd, A1060 Chelmsford Rd, B183 Sheering Road	16/02/2016 - 16/02/2016 (20:00h-06:00h)
B183 Sheering Road, Sheering	From its junction with Lower Sheering Road to its junction with Ardley End, Hatfield Heath.	B183 Gilden Way, A414, B184 Dunmow Rd, A1060 Chelmsford Rd, B183 Sheering Road	17/02/2016 - 22/02/2016 (20:00h-06:00h)
Matching Road, Matching Green	From its junction with Matching Green to outside the property known as the Farthyngs, Moreton.	Phase 1 - Little Laver Rd, Abbess Rd, Bottle Lane, Mill Lane, Harlow Rd Phase 2 - Mill Lane, Church Road, Matching Rd Phase 3 - Mill Lane, Bottle Lane, Abbess Rd, Little Laver Rd, Maltings Hill, Harlow Rd.	15/02/2016 - 26/02/2016
Rayley Lane, North Weald Bassett	From its junction with the A414 to its junction with Vicarage Lane West Roundabout.	Works will be undertaken on one lane at a time, therefore no diversion required	10/02/2016 - 15/02/2016 (20:00h-06:00h)
Vicarage Lane East, North Weald Bassett	From its junction with Weald Bridge Road for its remaining length.	No Through Road, No Diversion Possible	23/02/2016 - 26/02/2016 (20:00h-06:00h)

The works being undertaken will be completed in phases. The first phase is programmed to commence on the dates shown above. The road will be closed to facilitate each phase and then re-opened to the public. Access will be maintained for pedestrians and emergency services. Diversion routes will be signed at each location and residents will be informed of the dates of each phase via letter/leaflet drop and advanced warning signs on the road. Information will also be available on <http://roadworks.org/>

Phase One

Pre-surface patching works. These works comprise filling any surface defects and raising/replacing worn iron works (manhole covers and gully's) as well as removal of cat's eyes if present.

Phase Two

Surface dressing. The process entails spraying the road with bitumen and covering it with granite chippings, after which the road is then rolled, which along with the action of the traffic, embeds the chippings into the surface. The road will be swept within 48 hours and after 7 days. The bitumen part of the surface dressing as well as securing the chippings to the existing surface will seal the old road surface, thus preventing the ingress of water which causes deterioration of the road surface and will improve skid resistance.

Phase Three

a) Reinstatement of white lines if required. Reinstatement of any road markings.

b) Reinstatement of any road studs.

For all enquiries please contact our Contact Centre on 0345 603 7631

The Order will come into effect on 1st February 2016 and may continue in force for 18 months or until the works have been completed, whichever is the earlier.

Liz Burr, Head of Network Management, County Hall, Chelmsford

The Essex County Council (Hodings Road, Harlow)
(Temporary Waiting and Loading Restriction)
Order 2016

Notice is hereby given Colchester Borough Council acting on behalf of the North Essex Parking Partnership in exercise of the delegated powers of the traffic authority Essex County Council granted under an Agreement dated 31 March 2011 Has Made the following order under Section 14 (2) of the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984.

Effects of the order: To introduce no waiting and no loading restrictions in those lengths of road described below. The restrictions are required to avoid danger to the public and other traffic on the road and to prevent the likelihood of any such danger occurring near to the school site.

Hodings Road, Harlow

South Side - from a point opposite the boundary line of numbers 9/10 Hodings Road, southwest for 91 metres.

The District of Harlow (On Street) (Waiting Loading and Parking) (Consolidation) Order 2011 shall be temporarily amended in so far as it relates to the waiting and loading restrictions detailed in this Notice.

The Order came into operation on 18th January 2016 and may continue in force for up to 18 months or until it becomes permanent.

Richard Walker, North Essex Parking Partnership Group Manager, North Essex Parking Partnership, Colchester Borough Council, Rowan House, 33 Sheepen Road, Colchester CO3 3WG

There's no overtaking Layne – he's fantastic

Ryman North

Harlow Town 2
Bury Town 0

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

LEFT-BACKS don't tend to win over too many players and fans in popularity contests when you've got the likes of goal machine Alex Read or wing wizard Junior Dadsen in your team.

But full-back Layne Eadie's goalscoring and electrifying pace in attack has led Harlow Town midfielder Mario Noto to admit: 'He's my favourite'.

Eadie's fantastic individual goal set Harlow on their way to a sixth successive victory when they beat Bury Town 2-0 to all but end their faltering play-off quest.

And Noto, who scored the other goal in the Hawks' win, revealed Eadie was on his radar when he was playing at Boreham Wood in previous years.

Noto said of the former Norwich City left-back: "He's one of my favourites. I've got a soft spot for Layne as I've seen him play previously.

Special

"I've picked him out as one of the best players I have seen at this level. He does everything a modern day full-back can do.

"The way he took his goal and dinked it with the outside of his boot was something special. You don't see too many left-backs scoring goals like that."

The two fantastic goals lit up an otherwise dour match.

It was billed as the Ryman North's version of a 'Super Saturday' with seven of the top ten teams playing each other.

With second-placed Cray Wanderers, Thurrock and Tilbury all losing, while leaders AFC Sudbury drew 1-1 with third-placed AFC Hornchurch, Harlow cashed in.

The Hawks went in front on 31 minutes.

Eadie stormed down the left, cut into the box and then flicked the ball skilfully low into the net past the Bury keeper Neal O'Sullivan from ten yards out.

Read was denied by the Bury custodian from point-blank range, while strike partner Piers Wixon was thwarted by some excellent defending from Darcy De'ath.

The Hawks got the all-important second goal on the stroke of half-time when a rather cheap free-kick was bought by Read like stealing candy from a baby.

Noto sensationally hit this from the left side of the box and it curled over the wall and into the top left corner, giving O'Sullivan no chance.

On the hour mark Junior Dadsen's fantastic run ended with a shot from the left side close to the penalty area which clipped the top of the bar and bounced over with the keeper well beaten.

Noto added: "The gaffer said all the top sides were playing. It was important we did our job today. He has been saying one game at a time and picking up the points. That's six unbeaten now and six good wins so we have got to keep that going.

"The gaffer has been on at us about our second-half performance. Our first halves have been very good.

"Since the Thamesmead game we have been really good in the second halves and making sure we don't give anything away.

"I thought the back four were superb again today. They shut up shop and got a clean sheet.

"That next goal when you have a two-goal lead, it's always a precarious position.

"We know if we keep clean sheets we will score at the other end."

HARLOW TN: Hughes, Small, Eadie, West, Sonko, Simms, Dadsen, Noto, Read (Antoine 84), Wixon, Melaugh (Benjamin 46).

KEY MAN: Hawks striker Piers Wixon

Piers' pressure wins over some new friends

HAWKS boss Danny Chapman paid tribute to unsung hero Piers Wixon as his side strive to cement their place in the play-offs.

Speaking ahead of Saturday's trip to Aveley, the Harlow Town manager waxed lyrical about the role of the attacking player who only came to the club in late November to train and maintain his fitness after a miserable spell at Ryman North strugglers Waltham Abbey.

Chapman said: "Piers has been fantastic. The beauty was that he left Waltham Abbey and wanted to keep fit. You could see as soon as he came in there was more to him than that and since we have put him into that midfield role, just in front, I can't fault him.

"He hardly gave the ball away today [against Bury Town]. His work rate was fantastic. He has slotted in very nicely and has given us another dimension."

The Harlow boss knows his side must not trip up against some of the division's strugglers as the play-off chase starts to reach a pivotal stage.

Harder

"It's not so much about the teams at the top. It's the teams at the other end of the table. They can be the harder ones," he added.

With Sudbury just 13 points ahead of Harlow, Chapman is ruling out title talk despite his side having two games in hand.

"We don't need to get ahead of ourselves. The play-offs is still the target and then we will see where we are at the end of the month, depending on the results of the teams above us," he said.

"Then we will see whether our goal will change. We just want to make sure we are in the play-offs at the end of the season.

"There's still three months left until the end of the season and there's still loads of football to be played.

"Who knows what's going to happen between now and the end of the season? All you can do is stay focused and keep working hard and doing the right things, then you put yourself in the right position for the end of the season."

Chapman also hailed left-back Layne Eadie. "For a full-back going forward, he is the best left-back in this league and I would put him up there in the league above as well," he said.

Hawks nearly slip up versus Canvey Oilers

Essex Basketball League Division Two

Harlow Hawks 54
Canvey Oilers 49

THE Harlow Hawks met the Canvey Island Oilers for the third time already in 2016.

But unlike the previous matches it was a little too close for comfort this time around as the Hawks just about held on for a narrow victory on Friday.

The game was delayed by 20 minutes due to traffic.

With the game finally under way, it didn't take Rimantas Norkeliunas long to clear up a missed shot, score off the rebound and head to the line having being fouled.

Most surprisingly, he made the free throw to complete the conventional three-point play.

Both teams traded baskets until the final two minutes of the opening quarter. It was then the Hawks slipped up and allowed Oilers an 8-0 run to finish with an 18-15 lead.

Scores came from Shab Niaz, Russ Allan and Tom White.

A spark of energy from newest member Jimmy Fuhrmann straight from the inbound, allowed Hawks to rack up an 8-0 run of their own while holding the Oilers scoreless for five minutes.

A couple of big three pointers kept the Oilers close as some points from Dima Rozgonyuk gave Hawks a two-point advantage heading to half-time (30-28).

Hawks missed four consecutive free throws at the start of the third quarter.

More points from Norkeliunas early in the period and a Niaz three pointer followed by a long two pointer from Stuart Burgess extended the Hawks' tiny lead.

The Hawks took to the court with good spirit for the final quarter.

Norkeliunas added four quick points to maintain the lead.

Oilers managed to reduce the deficit to three points, but missed an opportunity to take the lead with four missed free throws of their own.

White and Mark Haddow checked into the game to add six points between them, leaving Allan and Niaz to see the game out from the foul line.

HARLOW HAWKS:

Norkeliunas 16pts, White 10, Niaz 7, Fuhrmann 5, Rozgonyuk 5, Burgess 5, Allan 4, Haddow 2, Whytock, Morris.

Sixth appeals to club runner

JASON HAIGH was sixth out of 128 finishers at the Hatfield Forest parkrun 5K.

The Harlow Running Club member clocked 20min 15sec.

He was followed by son Owen, making his race debut. He was 13th and third U18 in 21:40.

At the Panshanger parkrun 5K in Hertford, Sean Flynn was 42nd out of 254 finishers in 22:34.

He was followed by Brenda Clayton (165th and first female veteran 65 in 29:56).

Hockey freeze

THE frozen conditions put paid to Harlow Hockey Club's matches over the weekend.

Leopards back at Leisurezone hoping to blast off against Reading Rockets LEVETT Essex Leopards will look to continue their push for home-court advantage in the play-offs when they host Reading Rockets this Saturday, tip-off 7.30pm.

The teams are old rivals, and the Big Cats have faced Rockets more than any other team in their 12-year history, with the Harlow Leisurezone being the 12th different venue at which they've faced the Rockets.

Having begun the season as one of the favourites for silverware, Rockets made a slow start to the campaign but a thrilling 90-82 triple-overtime win at Brentwood helped them qualify for the National Trophy quarter-final.

In the league they are now up to fifth place with an 8-4 record, though Leopards will leapfrog them in the table if they win on Saturday.

Leopards picked up their seventh league win of the season on Saturday as the Spinners were beaten 83-71 at Harlow.

The Big Cats led from tip-off to buzzer as a pair of three-pointers from Ladi Brown and one from Will Ashby helped them into an 11-2 lead, but were made to fight all the way by a visiting side who have made a successful start to life in Division One.

Leopards' lead peaked at 31-12 following an Albert Margai basket with two second-period minutes remaining, but the visitors scored the final six points of the quarter and cut the lead to 32-25.

Courtney van Beest broke the run and finished the half strongly as Brown hit another trey and Tom Martin stole the ball and scored on the break to give the hosts a 52-38 half-time lead.

Connor Stuart opened the second-half scoring for Leopards, but the third period proved to be a grind for both teams as Spinners cut the Big Cats' lead to 62-52 at the final break.

The Bolton-based side cut the lead to six with six minutes remaining but Margai drained a pair of free-throws and Brown hit a couple of key jump shots as the hosts regained control and wrapped up the win.

Gold shows age no gulf for Canaan

South of England Champs win

By Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

CANAAN SOLOMON got what should be a crucial year off to a fantastic start with victory at the South of England Indoor Athletic Championships.

The 17-year-old Harlow College student was competing in his first ever U20 event.

Running over 800 metres at the Lee Valley Athletic Centre in North London, Canaan qualified easily for the final, placing second in his heat in a time of 1min 57.71sec.

In the final Canaan took the lead and after passing 400m in a fantastic time of 55 seconds, he was overhauled by Archie Davis, from Brighton.

On the final turn of the fourth circuit of 200m, Canaan retook the lead to triumph in 1:51:05, a new Championship record by more than three seconds.

More importantly it put the Woodford Green & Essex Ladies Athletic Club member top of the

Athletics

UK rankings for seniors and juniors.

Coach John Stow said: "A truly brilliant performance in my eyes."

Also stepping up an age group was 14-year-old Burnt Mill student Kyesha Robinson.

She was competing in the same Championships in the U17 girls' 400m.

Smashed

Kyesha smashed her personal best (PB) in the heats, running 60:49 and winning her race.

In the semi-final, Kyesha was second, making the final in a time of 60:50.

In the final she finished a gruelling three races in two hours.

This stamina-sapping tally meant she finished fifth in 60:51, narrowly missing out on a medal.

Kyesha's heat time of 60:49 ranks her 11th in the UK for the U17 girls category.

At Perivale in Middlesex in the Start Fitness Met League, Harlow students managed to take all three podium spots in the U13 boys' 3km race.

Sidnie Ward (Burnt Mill) managed to win in 11:22.

Joe Morgan was second in 11:26 and third went to Kai Boggan (Passmores), clocking 11:27.

Liam Waldron (Burnt Mill) was 19th in 12:31.

This was from a starting field of 70 runners.

In the U11s' race, Max Chinn had another excellent run for third from a field of 50 over 2km in 7:55.

Sid Cody (Fawbert & Barnard) was 20th in 9:34.

Hollie McArdell, 11, ran in the U13 girls' race and was 20th in 14:05 from 48 starters.

In the U15 boys' race over 4km, Burnt Mill student Hayden Maleary, 14, was eighth in 14:33.

In the girls race over the same distance, Siena Taylor was 14th in 17:10.

CAN DO: Canaan Solomon secured a brilliant gold at the South of England Indoor Championships in North London

Wall's Will power at Benfleet 15

WILL WALL can be very pleased with his 15-mile debut at a multi-terrain, hilly race at Benfleet in Essex.

The Harlow Running Club member was 137th place out of 590 finishers in an excellent 2hr 02min 49sec.

He was followed home by Brendon Maclean (141st in 2:03:11), a personal best (PB) time for the distance by more than ten minutes.

Debutants Andy Ramage and Martyn Coulter were 222nd in 2:11:57 and 226th in 2:12:10 respectively.

Other results were: Dionne Jones (260th in 2:16:03); Martin McColgan (352nd in 2:25:45); Debbie Smith (515th in 2:50:45); and Karen Moir (518th in 2:51:07).

Andy Kinney completed the Bermuda Triangle Challenge over the weekend.

This consisted of three races of increasing length in three days on the sub-tropical island.

On Friday, Kinney ran the Bermuda Front Street Mile, finishing in 48th place out of 70 in 8:08.

On Saturday he ran the Bermuda 10K, finishing in 487th out of 831 in 62:59.

Then on Sunday Kinney ran the Bermuda Marathon, when he was 91st out of 99 in 5:52:12.

At the Cornwall parkrun 5K in Auckland, New Zealand, Jon Steadman was 55th out of 241 runners in 23:27.

At the Cold Christmas to Good Easter Marathon, a trail race spanning the counties of Herts and Essex, Jared Bethell was 13th out of 87 in 4:29:34.

He was followed by Brendon Maclean (18th in 4:33:36) and Sean Flynn (58th in 5:45:37).

At the Harlow parkrun 5K,

Martyn Coulter was eighth out of 133 in a 22:04.

He was followed by Terry Ridge (tenth in 22:19), Catherine Ridge (17th and second female in 22:57), Anna Baker (19th and third female in 23:06 PB), Katharine Fennelly (41st in 24:55), Alan Wellbelove (44th in 25:27), Debbie Barry (46th and first female vet 55 in 25:45), Louise Kedge (57th in 27:04), Paul Dixon (61st in 27:28), Jeff Mace (67th in 28:07), Pushpa Mistry (81st in 32:00) and Kerry Mavris (113th in 38:59).

At the Gunpowder parkrun 5K at Waltham Abbey, Daniel Jephcott was third out of 118 finishers in a fantastic 18:35.

He was followed by his dad Jamie (4th in 19:32), Jamie Luck (19th in 22:32), Graham Saville (20th in 22:34 PB), John Bull (26th in 23:35) and Wendy Spring (33rd in 24:42 PB).

HOPE: Astin Wigley at Rye House Kart Raceway

Kart king Astin's a Brit special

TWELVE-year-old Harlow karter Astin Wigley is targeting more success after qualifying for the Cadet category at the Superone Series in the British Karting Championship.

The Mark Hall Academy student – whose racing career is mainly funded through his father Tony's cleaning business – heads to the Championships in red-hot form.

Having honed his skills at Hoddesdon's famous Rye House Kart Raceway where Lewis Hamilton started, Astin achieved wins on several tracks last year, including Buckmore Park, Mallory Park, Kimbolton, as well as close to home at Rye House.

His first race will be at Rowrah in Scotland on March 19-20 when Astin will compete in the Honda Cadet class for eight-to-13-year-olds.

He should be one of the most experienced and oldest racers in the series.

There are nine meetings in total and Astin and his father will certainly see a lot of Britain, with two rounds in Wales and another at Larkhall in Strathclyde, Scotland.

His father Tony said: "I've got high hopes for him that he can win it."

"He's had a string of victories over the last year. I would not have put him into it if he wasn't good enough."

Mr Wigley, a former karting champion himself when he was younger, has trained his son himself.

"I raced for 30 years. I taught him how to drive and he has been racing since he was six-years-old," he said.

"You can have the best kart, the best engine and all the money but that means nothing – it's what's behind the wheel that counts."

If Astin fares well in the British Championships he will move from karts to cars next year, a major step up.

This would most probably be in the Formula Fiesta Championship.

Astin is also sponsored by Boss Power.

England game for Bryant

HARLOW Ladies player Lynn Bryant made a second appearance for the England Deaf rugby team.

She played wing for the full game and made some good runs and hard tackles.

England lost 41-0 to the British Police team.

The match was held at the Met Police Sports Ground in East Molesey, Surrey.

Harlow Ladies are at home on Sunday in a league match against Wymondham.

Meanwhile, in boys' rugby Harlow U13s won 12-10 at home to South Woodham Ferrers in a thrilling Essex derby.

After conceding two unconverted tries, Harlow stormed back when prop Louie Lynch scored under the posts.

A conversion from fly-half Angelo Blasi, reduced the deficit to 10-7 at half-time.

After the break openside flanker Ollie Marshall powered through to score an unconverted try and secure the victory for the Young Rams.

Second row Tommy Johnston made a series of tremendous try-saving tackles to ensure Harlow held on.

Haye, Haye – Horton is no longer a 'who?'

Harlow pugilist thrills as TV channel makes boxing bow

THE David Haye comeback could have been a damp squib lasting all of two minutes and 11 seconds in front of 16,000 at the O2 Arena in London.

But Harlow boxer Richard Horton ensured television channel Dave's boxing debut wasn't completely a washout by thrilling the crowd and watching viewers with a fantastic punch up with former British champion Tony Dodson.

Thirty-four-year-old Journeyman Horton, of Spinning Wheel Mead, was thrilled to fight on the undercard of former World Champion Hayes and narrowly lost a tight decision.

It was in front of the biggest crowd and held at by far the largest venue Horton had ever fought during a professional career which started in 2004.

He said: "I got to shake David Haye's hand at the weigh-in. It's the first time I've had a standing ovation after losing a fight. I'm over the moon."

Hero

"My little boy said 'did you win?' and I said I didn't but he said 'well you tried your best – you're still my hero and that's all that matters'."

Dodson thought he had picked a nice easy warm-up as he prepares for another crack at a British title, with Horton stepping up to fight at light-heavyweight for the first time in his career.

How wrong Dodson was.

Despite being put on the canvas by a thunderous left hook in the second round, Horton refused to give in and battled back.

A cut above Dodson's left eye from a great right-hand punch Horton unleashed in the first round started to worsen as the Harlow man used all his experience to target it during the rest of the six-round non-title bout.

Most fight fans would have found it hard to pick a winner at the end and certainly many bouts would have been stopped because of the bloody condition of Dodson's eye.

The ring doctor took three looks at the fight between rounds but allowed it to continue.

Horton took some tremendous punishment but came back himself with some cracking combinations.

And Horton told the Star it was hugely disappointing to lose the bout but hopes he can now get a rematch with the 35-year-old Scouser.

"He was trying to get back to fight for the British title. It just goes to show I'm still in the mix for people like that," Horton said.

Certainly those attending the O2 Arena or watching on Dave would not refuse the opportunity to see these two men square up again as both gave everything during 18 minutes of almost non-stop action.

"The doctor looked at the cut three or four times but they just kept patching it up and putting loads of Vaseline on it. When the doctor came in the third time I thought 'enough is enough'," Horton said.

son said.

Horton now trains under new coach Gareth Lawrence at the LDG Gym in Romford.

The father of four took a five-year ring break to raise his children but revealed it was his wife Kara who convinced him to return to the ring in 2014.

He revealed she's a hard taskmaster. "She pushes me as much as my coach," he said. "She will phone up my coach if I haven't been out for a run."

He has now lost five bouts on the trot, including his first ever shot at the Southern Area Title, but his hunger to keep boxing and entertain the crowds has not diminished.

Horton gave everything against Dodson. "I had nothing to lose. I think it was very entertaining. It was just disappointing that I didn't get the win," he said.

"I've asked for a rematch."

"I knew how dangerous he was. I know his style. He has an aggressive style and I was more than happy to trade punches with him and get a scalp."

"I felt I had won. It was originally scheduled for eight rounds and I think he would have been stopped if it had gone any further. But everyone loved it."

The Harlow pugilist felt he was stronger at light-heavy and expects to remain at this weight.

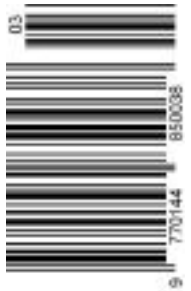

Horton is scheduled to fight Walsall fighter Lennox Clarke in his home town on February 21.

After that he has a quick turn around as he is set for an Essex derby with Loughton fighter Jake Ball just 17 days later.

Ball is trained by Jim McDonnell, the man behind James DeGale's rise through the boxing ranks.

But Horton only had five weeks' notice for last weekend's bout.

Cooperians leave Rams over a barrel

THERE was no cure for the Rams' travel sickness as title-chasing Old Cooperians left their play-off hopes over a barrel.

The heavy defeat left Harlow in fourth place and in desperate need of a home win against May & Baker to reignite their promotion quest.

Ominously May & Baker knocked West Norfolk off top spot with a 38-0 defeat last weekend.

Harlow's match at Cooperians was switched to Barking Rugby Club due to a waterlogged pitch.

With several key players injured the depleted Rams struggled to make an impression.

They got off to the worst possible start when Cooperians scored a try from the kick-off.

The backs stormed through weak Harlow defence and then added the conversion.

After 15 minutes the Harlow pressure told and, from a five-metre scrum, number eight Kain Claridge (pictured top) peeled off the back of a driving scrum and scored an unconverted try.

Defence

Ten minutes before the interval a home centre ran through the Harlow defence to add a second converted try.

With the Rams 12-5 down at the break, Cooperians stepped up a gear after the restart.

Soon into the half, Harlow failed to deal with a chip kick which went beyond the backs, from which the hosts scored a converted try.

Minutes later a poor clearance kick saw Cooperians make it 24-5 with their fourth try, securing a bonus points.

Two more tries took the margin to 38-5.

In the final ten minutes Harlow rallied.

From a good forwards' drive, replacement James Clark was held up close to the Cooperians line.

Fly-half Danny Smith linked up with his forwards and allowed Claridge to break through to score his second try.

Smith converted this but could not add the extras when Danny Stonehouse crashed through for the Rams' third try.

'RIVALS WRONG TO WRITE US OFF'

Super Mario's got Hawks firing

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

MIDFIELDER Mario Noto has told Harlow Town's rivals that they wrote the in-form side off at their peril.

The 31-year-old former Boreham Wood player, signed in November, struck a stunning free-kick in the Hawks' 2-0 home win over Bury Town on Saturday, as the Essex side moved into the play-off places for the first time since the early stages of the Ryman North campaign on the back of six successive wins.

Noto said: "A few people had written us off. We had all those games to catch up. Now we have six wins and if we put another three or four wins together, we won't be far off those top two or three places."

"We will have had ten games in the January period. Other teams will drop points, every league's the same. We've just got to make sure we keep picking up maximum points."

Harlow remain just 13 points off leaders AFC Sudbury with two games in hand, and although Noto is well aware that the Hawks head to Suffolk on the final day of the season, he is not getting too carried away with any title talk.

"If we get the opportunity it will be great. We have just got to keep on winning our games and it will be an interesting finale to the season if we do win those games in hand," he said.

"I've been involved in a couple of play-offs previously and whoever we get in those play-offs we would be confident we could beat them and then go on and win the final."

Noto's goal against Bury was his first for seven games and says a factor is Hawks boss Danny Chapman's decision to play him in a deeper role which he prefers. However, he now hopes to take more free-kicks.

He said: "I practiced [free-kicks] the other night after training. They say practice what you preach and it was perfect."

"I was getting some stick from the boys because I hadn't scored so I said 'look, let me have this one'. I said if I don't score they can get on them [free-kicks]."

Perfect

"I got it perfect and as soon as I hit it I knew it was going in. It was good to get that second goal and give us a bit of a cushion."

"The system that we play I was playing in a 'ten' role when I first came here. It's given me a chance to get some touch inside the box. Now I'm playing a bit deeper which I don't mind."

"You don't get as much opportunity to get in the box. But knowing me I should do better at set-pieces. I have had a few and haven't scored. Hopefully now there's more to come."

Having endured a difficult time towards the end of his Boreham Wood career, Noto admits he has been given a new lease of life as his football career begins to move towards its twilight years.

He hopes to play at Harlow next season and is confident that this will be in the Ryman Premier.

The playmaker, who was on Arsenal's books as a youngster, has been hugely influential in Harlow's fantastic run of six successive wins.

But he admits he was considering hanging up his boots before Chapman came in and asked if he would drop down three levels and help his team reignite their ailing play-off bid.

Noto said: "I came to Harlow just to see if I wanted to play and had that desire to play. Now I have got back in to it, I am still fighting to get back to my full fitness. I still think I'm a little bit away from that, but I'm really enjoying it."

"The gaffer and Spencer [Knight, assistant boss] have done really well with the lads and I'm enjoying the training. The facilities are great and I think it had to be a club where it was right for me to move."

"If the gaffer wants me [next season] and I'm doing the business I would like to stay. Promotion is the aim for us. The infrastructure is there and the chairman has got the club in place to move up. If he [Chapman] wants me and we can agree it, I would be happy to stay."

Harlow are away to Aveley on Saturday and host Wroxham on Tuesday in Ryman North.

Their trip to Romford last night (Wednesday) was on after a late pitch inspection.
